

Are you prepared for prevocational accreditation surveys with the new National Standards?

This series of three eLearning modules provides you with information to support your successful participation in the NSW Prevocational Accreditation Program.

Accreditation of prevocational training providers aims to ensure that all prevocational trainees working within the NSW Health System are safe and competent to practice.

Learn about key aspects of this program including:

- the accreditation cycle and processes
- the content and structure of the national standards for prevocational training programs
- the rating scale used in NSW to assess prevocational training providers
- how to prepare for a HETI prevocational accreditation survey.

Supporting excellence in prevocational training.
Understand and meet the requirements of the National Standards.
Complete your training now.

Search for NSW Prevocational Accreditation Program

Learning Pathway code: 224032456